Acknowledging the Stakeholders, Series One – ‘Salutation to Reviewers’

A scientific publication's success lies squarely on its stakeholders' shoulders. The important players are the authors, readers/users, reviewers, editors, the publication house, and the sponsoring institutes/organizations. Recognizing their contributions is the duty and responsibility of the journal management team.

Quality reviews supported by honest reviewers are pivotal to creating good shreds of evidence. Our journals' policy of blinded, anonymous, and honorary review process is one such step in the right direction. We would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge their contribution and extend our sincere thanks for supporting us in this regard.

Below is the list of reviewers who have reviewed more than one article for us in the last year.
