

Down The Lane: It's Been Three Years and Counting!

Navigating a scientific publishing project has presented challenges and significant rewards. At CIJMR, we have completed the initial three years of our operation. The engagement of our audience, authors, reviewers, editors, publisher, and management has been essential to our achievements. Our newly established tagline, "Noble Research, Global Impact," effectively reflects our overarching mission. It is important to update our stakeholders on our accomplishments and to acknowledge the contributions of these individuals.

This open-access project has attracted over seventy thousand viewers on the CiteFactor platform. We have archived more than sixty research papers from CIJMR in the Index Copernicus International repository, and all published items are accessible on Google Scholar. Additionally, we hold CrossRef membership, and all our published items have a DOI number. Our recent applications to DOAJ and Embase further demonstrate our commitment to excellence.

Here are some captivating milestones that reflect the remarkable journey we've embarked on together.

Our Publisher: We have a strong and growth-oriented partnership with MRI Publication Pvt. Ltd. With over fourteen years of experience, they serve the needs of more than 260 satisfied clients and manage over 155 journals, which have collectively published over 41,000 articles. Most of the journals on their platform are well-indexed.

Our Unique Selling Proposition (USP): Our strengths lie in our dedicated authors, reviewers, editorial board members, and steadfast support from our institutional management. The tireless efforts of 31 editors and 382 reviewers in refining the work of 147 authors underscore our commendable performance.

Let's take a stroll down memory lane with these captivating pictures! They're sure to spark some fond memories.
